CABINET QUILTS OVER RETURN OF LEOPOLD

BOTTOM'S UP—Three-year-old Oscar Franklin of Birmingham, Ala., was burned so badly two years ago that he was not expected to live. Today, Oscar is very much alive and on the road to recovery. Here he does his own version of a head-stand for nurses Carey Gantt and Irma Lee Burles.

Air Force Wife Gets 15 Years

Convicted Of Killing Husband In Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 18—(AP)—Mrs. Yvette Madsen of Brooklyn was convicted today of murdering her air force husband and was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment.

The prosecution contended that her husband, Lt. Andrew E. Madsen of Oakland, Calif., was slain as the climax of an argument with another officer at the party on the relative merits of the southern drawl vs. Mrs. Madsen's Brooklyn accent.

The court reached its decision after 24 hours of deliberation. The trial lasted seven days and was marked by several emotional outbursts on the part of Mrs. Madsen, during one of which she screamed:

"Hang me if you want. Hang me. I don't care. But make him stop."

She was referring to the testimony of a defense witness, Dr. Karl Kleist, a German psychiatrist, who testified she had a psychopathic personality and was under a delusion of persecution the night she shot her husband.

Mrs. Madsen stood pale but erect to hear the verdict, then slumped slowly into her seat with her dark eyes closed but still conscious.

She took the verdict with much more calm than she had shown throughout her trial.

Winty Blasts Nip Hopes For Spring

By The Associated Press

Winty weather dispelled all thoughts of an early Spring arrival over wide areas of the mid-west and east today.

Brisk March winds whipped freshly fallen snow in sections from Wyoming to the New England states. Temperatures were far below normal over the northern tier of states from the north central region to the North Atlantic seaboard. The chilly air touched into Kansas, Missouri and Kentucky.

In Washington, the U. S. Weather Bureau said the outlook for the next 30 days indicates below-normal temperatures over the eastern two-thirds of the nation. The other one-third of the country will have "not far from normal" temperatures, the bureau said in its latest experimental "monthly outlook."

Snow fell today over the lower Great Lakes region, the northern Appalachians and most of the New England states. There also was snow over most of Montana, Wyoming and the western Dakotas and falls were in prospect for many north central states.

The mercury dropped to six below zero at Pembina, N. D., one of the country's coldest spots. Sub-freezing marks were reported over most of the Midwest and New England.

Family Of Missing Mansfield Cadet Refuses To Give Up Hope

MANSFIELD, March 18—(AP)—The family of missing Cadet Richard C. Cox refused to give up hope today, despite statements from West Point officials that the youth must have been murdered.

But, said a spokesman for the distraught family of the 21-year-old Mansfield cadet, "we don't know what to believe."

Lt. Col. Edwin N. Howell, West Point provost marshal, said yesterday:

"I am convinced this is foul play. I'm sure we will not find the man alive."

The Academy already has dropped Cox from its rolls in compliance with directives relating to absence over 30 days. The Mansfield youth has been missing since Jan. 14 when he left his quarters to keep an appointment on the reservation with a man he referred to as "George."

Lt. Col. William Proctor, public relations officer at the Academy, said:

"I can only think that Cox has been done in by George or they both were done in by somebody else."

Cox told fellow-cadets before he disappeared that he had served as an enlisted man in Germany with George before he disappeared.

Rupert Cox, Jr., older brother of the missing cadet, said of the West Point officials' statements:

"Unless they have some definite proof we don't know about, we refuse to believe it."

The older brother said he spoke for the entire family. The cadet's mother left Mansfield yesterday for an undisclosed source for a "rest," the brother said.

Since the disappearance, scores of officers and enlisted men have searched the 15,000 acre Academy reservation daily without success. Cox was an Army sergeant before he entered West Point in 1948. Proctor called him "a damn good boy" who stood high in his class in his studies and his military aptitude.

"There was no reason for him to go AWOL," said the officer, "and we know of no family or financial difficulties."

Proctor said he felt the mysterious George would have come forward by now if he were not directly connected with the disappearance. The case has been widely publicized.

In Mansfield, members of Cox's family and his girl friend, Miss Betty Timmons, were just as baffled by the disappearance. But they're "not giving up hope."

Off The Record Stuff Doesn't Go In Alamosa

ALAMOSA, Colo., March 18—(AP)—The Alamosa Courier doesn't like "off the record" remarks by public speakers. Nor does it like to be accused of violating confidences.

So it's met the problem by printing a card and has its reporters hand one to the speaker whenever they cover any sort of meeting. The card says:

"For your information there is a representative of The Daily Courier in the audience. Please do not say anything 'off the record' or anything you do not want printed. Our policy is that any statement said in public to a large gathering of people, cannot be kept a secret. Anytime two or more people know something in Alamosa, it isn't long until everybody knows it. So, we cannot refuse to print anything newsworthy that you say today. Thank you."

Tender Crew Saved After Week Adrift

40 Safe; 14 Of Crew Stayed Aboard Fire Scarred Ship

By ROY ESSOYAN
PEARL HARBOR, March 18—(AP)—All 40 crewmen of the net tender Elder, blackened by fire and blasted by explosion, were rescued yesterday near the Navy's mid-Pacific atomic testing area. The dock landing ship Comstock picked up 26 men from a life boat and rafts at 3:15 p. m. They had drifted for a week in shark-infested waters after abandoning the stricken 163-foot Elder.

The destroyer tender Piedmont reached the stricken net tender herself at 11 p. m. and reported the other 14 crewmen were aboard and "all in good shape." They had stayed aboard to continue fighting the blaze.

The Elder, with five feet of water in her badly burned engine room, declined help from the Piedmont's crew.

"I can manage my own ship with my own men," said the Elder's skipper, Lt. William F. Adams of Wilmar, Calif. The Piedmont radioed that the Elder's 14 men were in "very good to excellent condition."

Adams said his disabled craft was passed up Monday by the military transport Gen. A. W. Brewster despite the Elder's signaling "with everything we had aboard except our three-inch gun." He said the Brewster was only two miles away.

"We signalled with flares, a flag, international distress signal, smoke signals and mirrors. We fired 20-millimeter guns and Very pistols. The crew jumped up and down on deck, waving anything they could lay their hands on."

The only reason the Elder did not fire her three-inch gun, Adams said, was that all the three-inch ammunition had been thrown overboard while fighting the fire.

The twin rescue ended an intensive air and seas search for the Elder—six days overdue at Eniwetok scene of forthcoming atomic experiments.

What had happened to her was a mystery until the 26 men were picked up from the rafts in the Central Pacific.

After they climbed aboard the Comstock, the sailors called for water then told their story.

Fire broke out in the engine room of the net tender March 10. A series of explosions followed.

The crew fought the spreading flames and jettisoned the ammunition aboard. All morning and all afternoon they struggled against the fire.

Then the Elder's commander ordered 26 of the crew to abandon ship. They put out in a life boat and rafts.

The other 14—eleven enlisted men and her three commissioned officers—remained aboard

Six Cars Damaged In City Accidents

Three accidents on city streets damaged six cars during the past 24 hours, police reported. Two were due to the icy pavement.

Helen Hum of 251 E. Sixth st. told police she was driving south on N. Lincoln and hit a car driven by Donald Loutzenhiser of 205 S. Howard ave. at 11:20 p. m. Friday.

She said she could not stop and skidded into the other car, which was halted.

Russell L. Barber of 809 Washington st. pulled from the curb at 785 E. State st. and was hit by another car operated by Richard Barth of Columbiana, who could not stop.

The mishap occurred at 11 p. m. Friday. Damage was slight. Clyde C. Taylor of 456 E. Sixth st., driving south on S. Ellsworth ave., made a left turn in front of a northbound car driven by William H. Grear of Barnesville. The two collided at Franklin and Ellsworth at 2:35 p. m. Friday.

The front of the Grear car was badly damaged.

Truck Flattens Car On Lisbon Road

Mrs. Dorothy Wilt, 30, of R. D. 3, Salem, is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital after suffering serious injuries in an accident at 3:50 p. m. Friday on Route 45, four miles south of Salem.

State patrolmen said she made a left hand turn as a coal truck driven by Milton D. Harmon, 19, of R. D. 3, East Palestine, started to pass her car. The truck rolled directly over the car and demolished it as shown in the above photo.

Mrs. Wilt received fractured ribs, injured shoulder, severe lacerations of the legs and multiple lacerations and contusions about the body. Harmon was treated and released at City Hospital. He had lacerations of the hands and abrasions of the hip.

Currency Panic Grips Berlin

Holders Of East's Marks Try To Unload

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, March 18—(AP)—The Soviet zone's currency plunged today to an all-time low value, gripping holders of the East mark in a near panic of selling to unload.

The crisis started yesterday, spurred by reports of a possible sudden currency reform in East Germany.

Money exchanges in West Berlin were besieged at opening time this morning by Berliners seeking to dump millions of Soviet-backed East marks for the more solid West mark, supported by American credits.

Following secret crisis meetings last night, Western exchange offices opened the market today at the lowest rate it's been since it was established in the summer of 1948—nine East marks to one West mark.

The black market rated the East mark even cheaper, at one-tenth the value of the West mark. But East German officials continued to maintain that the East mark actually is worth one West mark.

In actual exchanges between the two zones, however, the Eastern currency never has been worth more than one-fourth the West mark.

Exchange officials in Berlin said the new 8.80 to 9.00 rate would be maintained throughout the day, but added that as far as next week is concerned, "there is no telling how far the collapse will go."

The East mark began sliding in value immediately after Moscow announced the revaluation of the Russian ruble on a gold basis. Reports then began to circulate that the Soviet Union was bent on creating a ruble bloc of her satellites, including Eastern Germany.

Money-wise Germans, acting on some kind of a tip, started dumping East marks a week ago. Money dealers apparently were convinced that the Russians plan to revalue the East mark on the basis of the ruble.

J. T. Kilduff, chief of finance in the U. S. high commission for Berlin, said Western allied officials had no confirmation of the reports of impending currency reform in East Germany.

Coalition Split On Proposed Return Of King

Liberals Walk Out; Premier Says He's Resigning Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 18—(AP)—Belgium's coalition cabinet resigned today following protracted Liberal party deliberations on the proposed return of King Leopold III to his throne.

The fall of Premier Gaston Eyskens' government of Social Christian (Catholic) and Liberal representatives followed the resignation earlier today of eight Liberal ministers the government had hoped would support the move to recall the King.

The government's resignation was announced by Minister of Communications P. W. Seghers following a two-hour cabinet meeting.

Premier Eyskens after the cabinet meeting said only, "I am going to the Prince Regent."

Seghers issued the following communique:

"The government failed to reach an agreement on the convening of Parliament and this point not being inscribed in the government's program, the Prime Minister has decided to present the resignation of the government to the Prince Regent."

Social Christian members of the cabinet, led by the Premier, had hoped the Liberals would support the move to convene Parliament for passage of a resolution to end the regency and invite the King to return. Presumably the Liberals had refused to join the Catholic party in such a move.

Belgian workers meanwhile went back to their jobs today after 24-hour strikes protesting Leopold's return.

The fall of the government came after 100,000 mining and metal workers staged a 24-hour strike in the French-speaking Walloon area in protest against Leopold. These workers returned to their jobs today but labor leaders warned this was only the beginning of widespread demonstrations. Antwerp dock workers and civil servants voted to strike Monday.

Only six escaped from the 115-foot Gertrude De Costa, out of Yarmouth, N. S., after a sudden collision with the Interisland Steamship Co., Ltd., vessel Island Connector.

Sitting in the steaming engine room of the Connector, the still-shivering survivors told of a frantic scramble for safety during the few short minutes before their craft took her last plunge.

All were taken to a hospital shortly after the 1,386-ton Connector brought them into port. Some suffered injuries and shock.

In the companionway outside, lay the bodies of two of their shipmates, the only two recovered.

All the survivors—one actually was carried under with the ship but lived to tell the story—are from Nova Scotia. All the dead, except one from Grand Bank, Newfoundland, also were Nova Scotians.

Among the dead were Capt. Haslen Knickle of Lunenburg and his father, Otto. Another father and son, George Schrader and his son Dave, also were lost in the crash, which climaxed a jinxed voyage for the DeCosta.

On The Banks a few days ago a dory upset and one crew member was lost. His dory-mate, Morton Tanner of Blue Rocks, was saved. Today, Tanner was one of those lost.

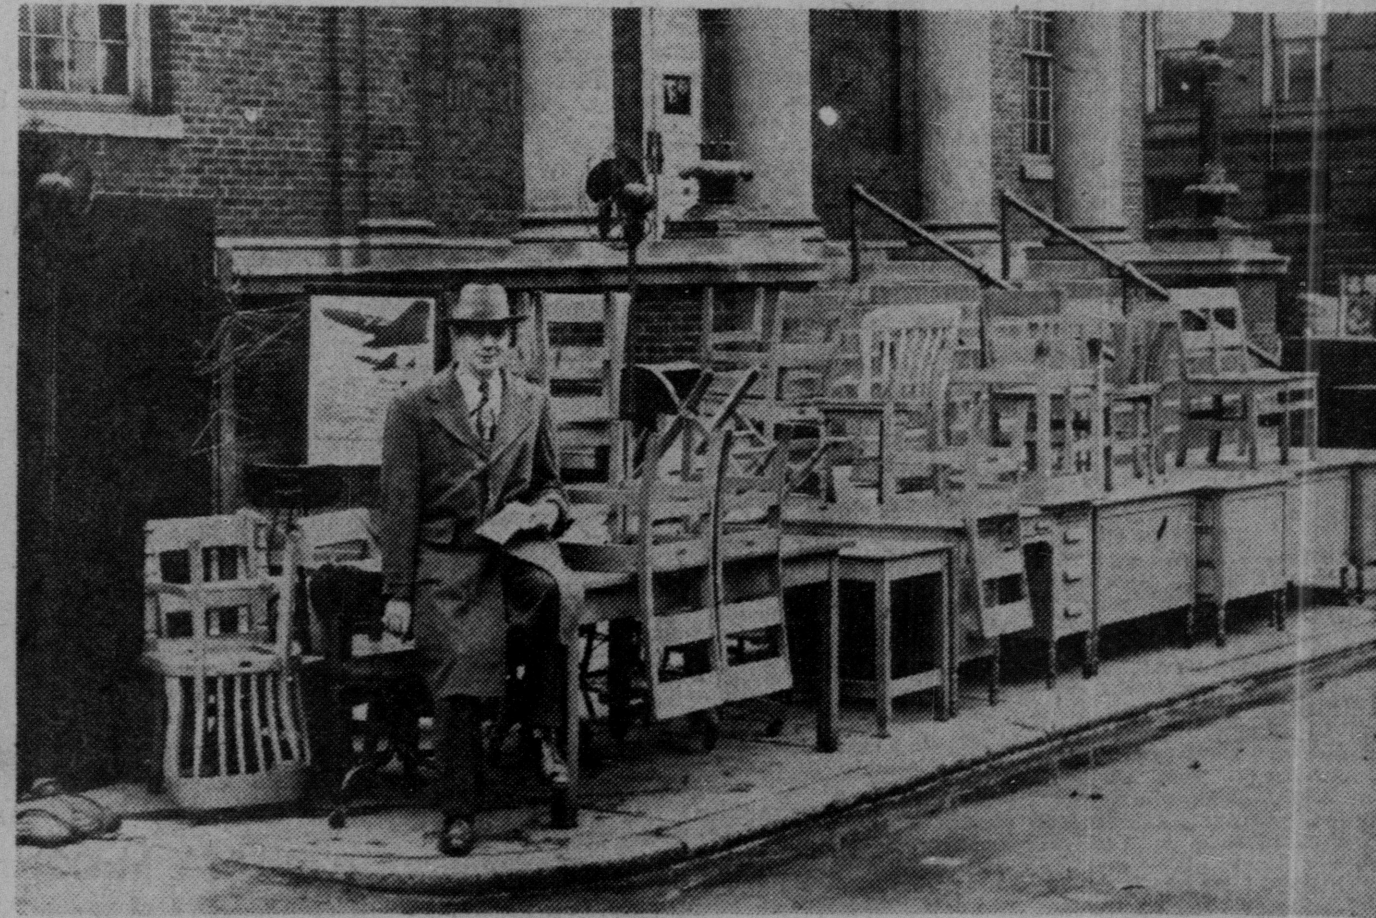

The minister was one of a group who refused formally Wednesday to pay federal income taxes because they objected to part of the revenue being used for the manufacture of armaments.

Justice of the Peace Ralph Pepple said Bromley was given 10 days notice to vacate on March 7.

Constable Raymond Winfield said the minister scuffled with him over a camera when he sought to evict Bromley. The eviction notice was filed by Coleman McGown, owner of the property. No reason was given.

SIDEWALK OFFICE. Driven out by yesterday's fire which destroyed the Ohio Grill and Gordon's Leather Shop, Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the Salem office of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation and the Ohio State Employment Service sits on one of his office desks. The equipment was carted to the sidewalk near the Postoffice when it was feared that the fire might spread to the employment office. Later Johnston and his staff moved back in but the office will not be open for business until Monday.

Churches Still Grow Faster
Than America's Population

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The church has a ringing reply for any who think it's on the skids. The fact is that it's still growing faster than the U. S. population—as it has been for decades—and it now claims an impressive 80,000,000 members.

In 1948, the last year for which full figures are available, church membership rose 2,190,164, or about 2.8 per cent, while the population was climbing 1.7 per cent.

But there's nothing surprising in that showing. Church membership gains have been outrunning population advances since 1880. Then it represented 20 per cent of the population. By 1920 it amounted to 40 per cent and today around 55 per cent of the people belong to religious bodies.

This is solid statistical backing for all the other many evidences that religion in the United States is at the highest pitch in history.

Attendance would be a better gauge of interest than membership, but churches don't keep accurate account of who actually comes regularly. One expert does hazard that normal attendance these days is around 30 to 40 per cent of membership. The general belief is that attendance is better than it used to be, but nobody can prove it.

CONTRARY to some notions the smaller sects haven't been the big membership gainers. It's the big denominations that are growing most. Among Protestant groups, for example, the Disciples of Christ, the Presbyterians, one Lutheran unit, the Southern Baptists, the Mormons and the Episcopalians made the sharpest advances in 1948. All are among the top dozen in size.

The Catholics are the only non-Protestant group to show marked gains. They picked up 807,500 in 1948 for a total of 26,075,700. There's been little change over the years in the relative proportions of Catholic and Protestant membership. Protestants represent about 60 per cent of church population. Catholics 33 per cent. Jews account for 6 per cent.

The long-range figures make plain that religion's increasing hold on the people isn't strictly a post-war affair. They lend weight to the idea that a search for deeper spiritual values to balance the material-mindedness of our industrial society may be a

Sermon On The Mount

"The Unjust Steward" by Rembrandt

"JUDGE NOT, THAT YE BE NOT JUDGED"—

JUDGE NOT, that ye be not judged.

For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

Confident Living

By DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The Search For Real Happiness

IN OUR new book, "The Art of Real Happiness," Dr. Smiley Blanton and I tell the story of a talk Captain Eddie Rickenbacker once made to a group of sick and disabled airmen in a veteran's hospital.

Every man in the room had been seriously wounded and many of them had been having psychological difficulties as well. In the course of his talk Captain Rickenbacker paused and looked around him, then said earnestly, "If there is any one of you who has not yet had an experience of God, my advice is to go out after it and get it!"

There was a hush in that hospital room. Each man there knew that this hero of two wars had passed on to them the secret that has continually brought him safely through many dangers. They knew that his advice to them pointed their way back from the shadows in which they stood.

"Think positively and masterfully, with confidence and faith," Rickenbacker has said, "and life becomes more secure, more fraught with action, richer in achievement and experience. This is the sure way to win victories over inner defeat. It is the way a humble man meets life or death."

SOMEHOW, for many of us, access to this tremendous power of confidence is elusive. Something within us seems to block us from it and leave us weak and ill and uncertain. Our anxieties and our fears and our fugitive resentments to work in, our hearts to create problems that loom large and frightening before us.

In an effort to help ordinary people in the solution of these problems which most of us face at one time or another, Dr. Blanton and I established our religious-psychiatric clinic at New York's Marble Collegiate Church. Since then thousands have come to us for help and the clinic has grown to the point where its staff includes, in addition to Dr. Blanton and me, other ministers, psychiatrists, psychologists and lay workers.

And our clinic is no longer the only one of its kind. Throughout the world other ministers and other doctors have joined together to provide this new-old help for troubled people.

Today's young ministers no longer go to their first churches, as I did, devoid of knowledge of the great discoveries science has made in its study of the human mind. Courses in pastoral counseling are part of the curriculums of every theological seminary and divinity school.

I have written before in these columns and shall continue to do so about the many different problems people have brought to us and about how we have attempted to solve them. In each case, I attempt to outline a step-by-step technique which can be useful to others with the same or similar problems. Fix your thought on this wonderful fact—there is always an answer to any problem a human being must face. And, if you learn the and the use of religious healing power.

With the first step, the latest discoveries of the sciences of the mind are applied to trace the source of the problem and diagnose it. With the second step, the age-old wisdom of the Bible is applied in simple style to release the powers all of us carry within ourselves to heal ourselves.

We cannot and do not claim that this technique will cure all ills, physical and mental. Some are primarily physical in origin and need the expert attention of other medical specialists in addition to the psychiatrist. Others are basically religious in nature and fall into the province of the pastor alone. But, for most people, the application of this technique can offer fresh hope for a new future.

Tombstone Paying Up After 80 Years

TOMBSTONE, Ariz.—(UP)—Tombstone has begun making good a debt it incurred nearly 80 years ago.

The $12,750 obligation appeared on the city's books when, as a rough mining camp, it defaulted on salary warrants.

City officials decided to pay off the debt after the state auditor, Ana Frohmler, warned that Tombstone no longer would receive its share of state sales tax receipts unless it cleared the account.

A special tax was imposed recently and a $1,000 check was promptly forwarded to Mrs. Frohmler as part-payment for the long-standing obligation.

"WHERE THOUSANDS HAVE SAVED MILLIONS"

A Hungarian family, made strong through past hardships, looks to the future without fear, to a life in a new land. Brought to this country by Mr. and Mrs. Anton Horvath of R. D. 3, Canfield, are left to right: John Novak, wife, Anzelma Novak, John, Jr., Zoltan, and Mrs. Novak's mother, Mrs. Rosa Habermen. Mergit Novak, three years old, is in front of her mother.

Novak Family Starts Life Anew Here, Leaves D. P. Camp Behind

By WARREN GERBER

MARGIT, aged three, laughed, almost bubbled over, the morning of Feb. 26, because the bed was so soft. This little girl's thrill, so valuable on her second day in the United States, was the beginning of many thrills for the Novak family which is rounding out its first month in this country.

John Novak and the five members of his family, late of Veszprem, Hungary, and Salzburg, Austria, have made their way from an American Displaced Persons camp in Austria to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Horvath who operate a dining room on the Canfield road. Mrs. Horvath said almost every hour brings a new exciting experience to the Novaks—thrills with things Americans think of only as commonplace.

Arrangements for the trip to this country were made through Fr. Andras Jerome of Farrell, Pa., a personal friend of the Novaks many years ago in Hungary. At first little hope was held this large family would be allowed to make the trip, but after a year of letter writing and many prayers, the order was issued and the Novaks were on their way.

John Novak operated an exclusive dry-goods store in Hungary, but very early in the war merchandise became unavailable and he became an administrator in an ammunition plant there. As the Russians swarmed into their country the mother, Mrs. Anzelma Novak, and the three children fled to Austria. Mr. Novak and Mrs. Novak's mother, Mrs. Rosa Habermen followed. Each little party was given just 24 hours notice when it came time to leave their home.

IN THE SALZBURG D. P. camp they had one room and an army-like barracks. The father worked in a coal mine for three years. He lost his "job" to an Austrian youth, but John Jr. finally got a job in the mine as they had to partially support themselves.

The family has stuck together ever since arriving in Salzburg. Shortly before leaving the D. P. camp the Novaks were overjoyed to learn that Mrs. Novak's brother and wife had been released from a Russian prison camp and had returned to Hungary. The brother and his wife were the only ones of this family to be imprisoned during the war.

John, Jr., 19 and Zoltan, 17, were high school students in Hungary. In addition to his work at the mine John worked at an Army motor pool in Salzburg. There he learned some English. He and Zoltan were given welding training by the International Refugee Organization at the camp.

Both boys are now attending classes at Canfield High school. They are in the eleventh grade and are studying English, algebra, physics and shop practice. John is making a little faster progress because of better knowledge of English obtained while working for the Army. They do not intend to complete school as do most American youths.

The Novaks went to Bremen from Salzburg. They sailed Feb. 6 and landed at New York after a slow crossing due to bad weather. Mrs. Horvath said the Novaks wore clothing sent from this country for distribution to D. P.'s. Mrs. Horvath and her son Joseph, a senior music student at Michigan State University, met and welcomed the Novaks to the United States.

Mrs. Horvath compliments Mrs. Novak as a talented cook of Hungarian dishes. Mr. Novak and Mrs. Habermen also help in the dining room kitchen. Mrs. Habermen also has become an Americanized "baby sitter." She was interested to learn of the visit of Otto of Austria to Salem. She said her husband was a commercial photographer and on one occasion she too photographed Otto.

John and Zoltan are now waiters in the dining room and patrons have praised them for their extreme courtesy.

MARGIT is concentrating on having fun just as a little girl should. She is rapidly gaining weight. She was perhaps the one most in need of good food after the questionable child's diet of a D. P. camp.

The family is appreciative of gifts of clothing which has been given to them recently by the Salem Red Cross and other well-wishers.

The Novaks, for generations, have been merchants. Father Novak looks far into the future when he and his sons may again seek the people's favor in this way. It will probably be in a small way as the Novak store and contacts have been left behind, as have the fears, uncertainties and difficulties of an old but unhappy land.

GOP Aims For 3 Billion Cut

Want More Paring Than Was Suggested

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—House Republicans aimed a new $3,000,000,000 cut today at a lump sum $30,300,000,000 appropriation bill already tentatively trimmed by $1,200,000,000.

The bill carries most of President Truman's budget recommendations for federal agencies for the 1951 fiscal year, starting next July 1. It is due to be considered by the House appropriations committee starting next Monday and is slated for floor debate March 27.

The tentative reduction was reported by members of the powerful "central" subcommittee of the appropriations group. The cut does not affect foreign aid funds, nor does it apply to the so-called permanent and indefinite appropriations and trust funds which cannot be trimmed. All together they account for about $12,000,000,000.

The committee action would make the federal deficit for the fiscal year 1951 about $4,000,000,000—assuming that Congress sticks to its apparent determination not to raise taxes this year. Another cut of $3,000,000,000 in the omnibus measure would lower the anticipated deficit to $1,000,000,000, and that is what GOP fiscal leaders are driving for.

Some Republicans are talking about a blanket cut of 10 percent on all items. They believe this would pass on a roll-call vote.

Subject to further committee action, here is how the omnibus measure now stands, say committee sources:

Treasury department, cut from $2,812,000,000 to $2,753,000,000. Atomic Energy Commission, Veterans Administration and other independent agencies, cut from $8,458,000,000 to $8,024,000,000.

Agriculture department, cut from $799,000,000 to $764,000,000. Labor department and Federal Security agency, cut from $2,462,000,000 to $2,271,000,000.

Army engineers, cut from $834,000,000 to $675,000,000. National defense, including Army, Navy and Air Force, cut from $13,028,000,000 to $12,839,000,000.

Interior department, cut from $669,000,000 to $621,000,000. State, Justice and Commerce departments, cut from $1,184,000,000 to $1,110,000,000.

Legislative department, cut from $65,000,000 to $56,000,000.

Lausche For Limiting Taxing To Spenders

COLUMBUS, March 18—(AP)—If officials who spend tax revenues had the responsibility of imposing the taxes, greater thrift would result, Gov. Frank J. Lausche said last night.

The governor made that comment after C. Emory Glander, state tax commissioner, said cities should not expect the state to increase their local aid if they do not levy municipal income taxes.

The Ohio Supreme court said recently cities can enact local income taxes, if approved by voters or permitted by charter.

The governor commented after being read excerpts of Glander's speech:

"If additional financial aid is to be provided by the state to local governments or other subsidized units, new revenues will have to be obtained through taxation. If the revenues must be obtained through taxation, it would seem that the governmental units that are spending the money ought to impose the tax."

This meant, he said, those who spend the money ought to have the responsibility of imposing the tax. He continued:

"There are some public officials who find great joy in spending money when they are not faced with the burden of imposing the tax. If the spender of the governmental money is faced with the grim responsibility of imposing the tax, there will be greater thrift in the use of the money that has been collected from the taxpayers."

Gimbel, Department Store King, Dies

PHILADELPHIA, March 18—(AP)—Ellis A. Gimbel, Sr., department store owner and philanthropist, died yesterday at his home after an illness of four days. He was 84.

With him when he died were his son, Ellis A. Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Fridolyn Graham, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Gimbel. The elder Gimbel's wife died in 1948.

Ellis Gimbel was widely known in the business world as the "dean" of department store-keeping. With six brothers and his father, he founded a store system that now includes branches in Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Beverly Hills, Calif., and Miami, Fla.

Since 1936, Gimbel—last surviving brother—had served as chairman of the board of Gimbel Brothers, Inc.

He was credited with being among the first department store owners to adopt such innovations as store escalators, motor-driven trucks for delivery, and a testing bureau for merchandise.

He was well known for his philanthropies, devoting much of his time and wealth to the blind and underprivileged.

Literally thousands of Philadelphia children were taken to the circus by Gimbel in recent years. Gimbel-sponsored Thanksgiving day parades are Philadelphia fixtures.

One of the most frequently told stories about Gimbel concerned a little girl who went to the Gimbel store in Philadelphia after reading a newspaper advertisement stating pianos could be bought for "a mere song."

Gimbel was informed of her misunderstanding of the advertisement. He talked to the youngster, told her to sing for him and gave her the piano she had expected.

Gimbel was born in Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 9, 1865.

Senate Postpones Support Battle

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—A Senate argument over tightening up government price supports on potatoes and liberalizing controls on cotton and peanuts was put off today until Monday.

Chairman Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) of the Agriculture committee said many Senators who could not be present today had urged him to delay debate on the House-passed compromise bill. Senator Hickenlooper (R-Ia.) protested sharply. He said he had cancelled an engagement to be present for the farm debate but Thomas insisted on the delay.

The legislation is expected to draw heavy fire in the Senate. Senator Anderson (D-NM) already has urged the Senate to show "great caution" before approving the compromise affecting price supports for three major crops.

Make Piquant Deviled Eggs

FOR a meatless luncheon main dish salad, use eggs (they are on the economy list) made piquant with pickle relish.

Piquant Deviled Eggs (6 servings)

Six hard-cooked eggs, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 3 tablespoons sweet pickle relish, ¼ cup mayonnaise.

Carefully cut eggs in half lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash yolks with a fork. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Pile yolk mixture into halves of egg white. Garnish with thin slices of sweet pickle.

Here's another luncheon main dish perked up to gourmet flavor with pickle relish.

Ham Pickle Nests (Makes 10)

Ten slices fresh white bread, one 12-ounce can luncheon meat, 6 tablespoons mayonnaise, 4 tablespoons sweet pickle relish.

Trim crusts for slices of bread and press each slice into a muffin pan to form cup. Chop luncheon meat coarsely; combine with mayonnaise and pickle relish. Mix well. Fill bread cups with mixture. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes or until bread is toasted.

Pickleburgers (6 servings)

One and one-half pounds ground beef, salt and pepper, one-third cup sweet pickle relish, 3 tablespoons prepared mustard, ¼ cup diced onion, 1 dozen hamburger rolls.

Combine all ingredients except rolls, mixing lightly. Shape in 12 patties. Pan-fry in a small amount of fat or grill over an open fire until of desired degree of doneness. Serve on toasted rolls with additional pickle relish.

Compounding The Confusion

THE state tax commissioner of Ohio, C. Emory Glander, has issued what sounds like an invitation to Ohio cities to run hog-wild on city income taxation.

Speaking in Columbus before a conference on restaurant management at Ohio State University, he declared that local income taxes provide a "complete solution to the financial plight of cities." He further said that instead of asking for additional allocations of state money to help them make ends meet, cities should turn to municipal income taxes and thereby solve their own financial problems.

Commissioner Glander's remarks were prompted by the recent ruling of the Ohio Supreme Court that municipal income taxes are permissible in Ohio in all cases where it can be shown that they are established within the rules. The practical extension of this legal opinion means that any city may collect local income taxes without even a referendum, provided it does not act in violation of its charter. If there is no charter, the matter lies wholly within the discretion of local authority.

But Commissioner Glander is dead wrong when he calls local income taxes a "complete solution." They solve nothing. Only one thing about them is certain: That if they were to be piled on top of existing taxes they would become a net addition to the tax burden—a permanent net addition.

Ohioans as a whole are not going to stand for any permanent additions to the tax structure until there have been some far-reaching improvements in the structure's foundation. It is possible that an Ohio city here and there may adopt local income taxes as a last resort, which is what happened in Toledo. But such taxes do not belong in the tax structure as it exists today.

There's no secret about what's wrong with the structure. It is top-heavy at the federal level; too much money is sent away to Washington for dispersal in other parts of the United States and in remote parts of the world. That money, insofar as it is used for purposes which produce nothing but higher costs, needs to be kept at home. Taxpayers are willing to support the federal government. But they're no longer willing to support it in the style to which federal spenders have grown accustomed.

At the state level there has come to be the same kind of spending itch that afflicts Washington, on a smaller scale. Ohio's current budget is theoretically out of balance, despite more than half a billion dollars available for spending in this biennium, because Columbus has got into the same open-handed attitude of redistributing other people's money as the spenders in Washington. It isn't recognized functions of state government which are threatening a deficit in Ohio. It's the never-ending demand for handouts to make things easier for everything and everybody from war veterans to picnickers.

If the money already being turned over to taxpayers were to be appropriated equitably, there would be enough to go around. If the tax structure of the United States were to be revised with a view to making it support basic instead of marginal needs, cities wouldn't need to be grasping at such slender straws as municipal taxes to support themselves.

The addition of municipal income taxes to a jerry-built tax structure would only add to the long-range confusion. Taxpayers have no objection to rendering unto Caesar everything that properly belongs to Caesar. But they want to know "upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed that he is grown so great." And they're not going to offer themselves as sacrificial lambs until that question has been answered to their satisfaction.

Hammer And Sickle

SECRETARY OF STATE ACHESON, perhaps unintentionally, has shown what's wrong with the idea that all the United States and Russia need to do is have another conference or two and, presto, there will be peace.

His list of seven ways in which the Kremlin can prove it wants peace is longer than it needs to be, but as long as it includes only one point there can be no peace. That is the requirement that the international conspiracy known as the Communist party must quit trying to overthrow other governments.

Mr. Acheson's other points are of no importance, as far as peace is concerned. It is as unthinkable that the Kremlin would abandon its policy of using the international conspiracy of Russian-bosses Communism to badger other governments as it is that the United States might learn to like that sort of thing. The hammer and sickle are here to stay.

Even Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was no Red-baiter, gagged on this cute device to spread revolution in behalf of Russian nationalism. One of his requirements for diplomatic recognition of the Soviet Union was no more conspiratorial monkey-shines by Communists taking orders from Moscow. This was cheerfully promised by an agent of the Russian government, though never by the government itself. Thereafter, the agent was dumped overboard, never to be heard of again, and the Russian government proceeded to undermine the United States with Communist agents.

On the day when Russian Communists haul down the hammer and sickle and start up in business under new management pledged to live and let live, Mr. Acheson's job as Secretary of State will be a snap. He doesn't expect that will happen. No one who has hoped that the Communist party's international conspiracy to seize the world in the name of Russia might prove to be only a bad dream expects it to happen. The dream has proved to be a reality.

Wired For Sound

THE OPENING of most of the state, political and personal papers of Franklin D. Roosevelt to public research at the Roosevelt Library in Hyde Park on Friday marks a new conception of public interest in this kind of material.

Formerly, it was the prevailing idea that such documents except for those of a purely official nature, were and should remain forever in private hands. In no previous instance has a collection of presidential papers been opened within five years. It was 82 years after Abraham Lincoln's death before the public knew what was contained in the more than 18,000 letters and drafts which reflected the thought and action of the Civil War president.

The next great advance, now that most of the Roosevelt papers have been opened, should be the systematic recording of all official conversations with direct bearing on the public welfare. This already is mechanically feasible. If there existed today a record of what was said in the important negotiations at Potsdam and Yalta, half a dozen troublesome misunderstandings either could be cleared up or at least prevented from getting worse.

There can be no such thing as a private matter between persons dealing at an official level with the public interest. Ideally, there never could be anything that could not be released to the public immediately. In practice, there never could be anything so secret that the public would not have a right to know about it eventually.

From The Heart

By Hal Boyle

THERE IS A great and growing religious revival in America. Significantly, it is spreading widely among the youth of our post-war generation, the generation that is usually a prey to doubt, disillusion and cynicism.

Recently I received a letter from one of these young people—Miss Josephine Owens of West Helena, Ark., that told of the happiness her awakened faith had brought her.

Her letter was simply written, artlessly sincere, fervent with a desire to help others. She said I could give her letter a wider audience if I wanted to, "because it is so important that people wake up."

And so I will. Here is one girl's Lenten sermon—an old message from a young and zealous heart: "Oh, if I could get everyone to become a Christian, what a blessing it would be—for them!"

"I USED TO worry continually about money matters, the hydrogen bomb, etc. Now those things aren't important at all. Only God is important in my life. I only want to live so that I can serve him. He will keep me from harm—and also anyone else who will believe in him and trust and have faith.

"God has made a 'fisher of men.' My purpose now is to win others for him. But people are hard. They don't want to know about God. But once they do, then they see what they have been missing.

"God does many things for men which they take for granted. Think of the air, the sun and rain, the clothes we wear, the food we eat—and so many, many other things. God makes all these possible, but people take them for granted. If they don't get them they raise all kinds of Cain about the senators, the President and the governors—when, if it weren't for God's good hand, these things would never even be.

"Think how wonderful he has been to America! We don't have a war-torn country like Europe and Asia. We have just about every possible comfort and joy, and yet we turn our backs on the Saviour.

"YOU SAY it is difficult to be a Christian? Well, dear people, once the loving saviour has truly touched your hearts, you won't want to do wrong. You will only want to do the Lord's will.

"The other day I asked a poor, crippled Negro man who was begging on the street, 'are you a Christian?' And he replied, 'yes'm, for 40 years.' Just think that poor soul, crippled and having to beg for a living, giving 40 years to Christ!

"Once people know Christ they never want to leave him. There is so much he can do for you—if you will only let him. He is more important than anything or anybody. And the sooner people find this out, the better off they will be.

"Oh, dear people, wake up! Know and accept Christ as your Saviour. Give your heart to him. Serve him and he will truly bless you. Repent of your sins. Confess your sins, believe in him, obey his will, and you will receive a greater joy than any you have ever known."

One Thing We Can Count On, Sooner or Later

Labor's Attack On Senator Taft

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON
LABOR is said to have marked six senators as its prime candidates for political oblivion this year. They are Taft of Ohio, Millikin of Colorado, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Capehart of Indiana, Donnell of Missouri and Wiley of Wisconsin. All are Republicans.

By a coincidence, all of these but Millikin are reported to be on President Truman's list of top targets. We don't understand these political analysts who question Labor's right to oppose whichever lawmakers it chooses. It shouldn't have to be said Labor has as much freedom in this regard as any other group.

Labor has some broad goals that may perhaps be attainable only through legislation. To gain those ends, it needs sympathetic friends in Congress. What is more natural than that it should try to elect them? Or try to defeat those it considers unfriendly? But one might fairly ask, however, whether Labor always views its own interests in a genuinely broad light. Take the case of Senator Taft, for instance. He heads Labor's list of undesirable. That's largely because he symbolizes the Taft-Hartley Act, which union leaders call a "slave labor law." In view of their strong feeling toward this statute, their dislike for Taft is understandable. But it is definitely short-sighted.

TAFT is a co-author of the federal public housing law now on the books. It is doubtful whether the measure would have passed the Senate without his steady support. He favors federal aid to education, and a federal health plan (though much more limited than the Administration's). As a matter of principle, Taft accepts the responsibility of government to safeguard the popular welfare, where private enterprise or smaller units of government show themselves unable to do the job.

By American political standards, this attitude is neither reactionary nor markedly conservative. In these fields, Taft is plainly as good a friend as Labor has in the Senate. Probably better, because he is far more influential in promoting the passage of important bills than many of those who enjoy Labor's blessing.

Even on the issue of Taft-Hartley, Taft is no stubborn muck. He approached the original bill seeking justice for all—labor, management and the public. When repeal was proposed in 1949, he conceded he may have been wrong on numerous points. In acknowledgment, he proposed a long string of amendments to better the law. But his plan, successful in the Senate, died in the House because only repeal would satisfy Labor.

THIS IS NOT to suggest Taft is Labor's perfect ally or that he is infallible. Quite the contrary, he undoubtedly makes many errors. But it should be evident to anyone who studies his record and learns how tirelessly he works to ferret out facts that he is a lawmaker in the most honorable sense of that word.

Whatever mistakes Taft may make, he is never guilty of failing to seek the pertinent facts. And he always tries to make up his mind honestly and without yielding to fear or pressure. He lets the facts lead him wherever they seem to point, even when it means he will have to espouse a cause his GOP colleagues consider "socialistic."

Does Labor appreciate how rare are men of such integrity in the Senate, or for that matter in any lawmaking body anywhere? Neither Labor nor business nor the farmer nor the ordinary consumer can have a better friend in Congress than a man who searches diligently the real answer to a problem and fights for that answer when he thinks he has it.

Labor should be more discriminating in choosing its targets.

Truman 'Vacation'

By PETER EDSON

President Actually Writing Speeches For Tour

IT hasn't been announced, but one of the main purposes of President Truman's Key West "vacation" is to write speeches for the coming "non-political" tour into 15 states this summer. Itinerary hasn't been completed, but Pennsylvania, Ohio and the Dakotas are marked for special attention.

The President won't dabble in any primary fights except in his home state of Missouri. One aim of the Key West trip was to get speeches written for every scheduled stop on the first tour. But it's a safe bet no speeches were written aboard the presidential yacht while nearly the whole staff was sea-sick.

WHITEWASHED—David Demarest Lloyd, White House assistant whose aunt, now dead, once owned a piece of the New York Communist Daily Worker, feels that the activities of another of his relatives more than made up for it. He had an uncle who owned a piece of the Chicago Tribune.

CONGRESS has finally got around to passing all of ten laws since it convened on Jan. 3. But in the first two months of the session over 1300 new bills were introduced. Only one of the ten new laws can be considered important. It provides economic assistance for the Far East.

Among the no-so-important laws Congress has bothered to pass this session is one to eliminate the requirement for detailed reports on sales of condemned government material. Still another new law approves Federal grants for minor projects at major airports. Prize of the lot is a law authorizing the Marine Band to go to Lexington, Mass., for Paul Revere Day, April 17. President Truman let that one become a law without signing it.

TENSE MOMENT — Matthew Cvetiv, the Pittsburgh FBI agent who posed as a Communist in order to expose Communist party activities there, is being swamped with offers to write a book about his experiences into a movie. Cvetiv is now off the FBI payroll and may accept one of the offers to go literary or dramatic. A high spot in any story or movie based on his experiences will certainly feature one of his narrowest escapes from exposing his hand to the Reds he was spying on. It happened during the war. The FBI learned that a Nazi agent had a radio transmitting station in the same hotel where Cvetiv lived. He was ordered to look into it.

Cvetiv quickly gained the confidence of the Nazi spy. But one evening as he walked down the stairs into the hotel lobby, he saw a group of his Commie friends. He knew that the Commies knew his companion was a Nazi. He also knew that if the Commies saw him with the Nazi, they would become suspicious.

By some fast footwork, and with a quick explanation to the Nazi, Cvetiv ducked back upstairs out of sight of the Commies in the lobby. Next day a group of G-men nabbed the Nazi and his radio, and took Cvetiv off the spot.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS INSTITUTE, a private research organization backed by the railway brotherhoods and the World Government Foundation, has thought up a new plan for the Point Four program to aid underdeveloped countries. P. A. I. thinks State Department plans aren't big enough. So, without government approval, it proposes establishment of some 200 "work centers" in backward areas. Each work center would be staffed by ten $10,000 a year technicians.

They would be aided by 20 native technician assistants, total cost another $100,000. These groups would be agricultural experts and engineers, who would act as teachers. Each work center would have four shops for automotive, farm machinery, irrigation pump and electric motor repair and maintenance. Each work center would have dormitories for 1000 natives who would undergo training. Cost of setting up one of these work centers is estimated at $1,500,000 plus $750,000 a year upkeep. Total cost of the work center program for five years would be $14,000,000,000.

Nothing Automatic

By TRUMAN TWILL

HERE'S another one of those hoity-toity architects who say a modern house should be a "machine of living," instead of what it is, which is a far cry from a machine.

The houses most of us run for when it rains are x cubic feet of space enclosed in the usual manner and held in place by heavy mortgages which are going to be lifted about the time another Republican is elected to the presidency, and maybe we should live so long.

The only thing automatic about them is the way the payments and the taxes fall due like clockwork and catch us short of funds because the clockwork does not work like clockwork but like something that Rube Goldberg invented back in the carefree days when he used to draw those zany contraptions that made him famous.

They are not guaranteed against faulty behavior, heartaches, mice in the kitchen or mysterious knockings overhead in the middle of the night. Nor are they guaranteed to deliver any special quota of carefree service, with all parts replaceable at cost during the first 5,000 miles or any part thereof or thereafter.

No matter how much gleaming equipment happens to be installed in them, they still will not start to do what they're intended to do without the benefit of frequent bursts of laughter, and they must be lubricated with tears in a hit-and-miss fashion. Nothing about them is standard equipment, except the certainty that there will be fingerprints on the wallpaper.

Furthermore, they are not subject to load limits, which is contrary to the rules about machinery. No matter what their rated capacity may be, they always will exceed it and therefore must be able to expand instantaneously. In fact, they work better when overloaded and only begin to grow unsatisfactory when no one lives in them any more except the people who are supposed to live in them.

Contrary to all practices governing machinery, the dumber a house gets the more valuable it may become, under certain circumstances. When John Howard Payne wrote, "There's no place like home," he didn't have the super deluxe version in mind but a weatherbeaten model which was new, if ever, so long ago that no one remembers when.

He probably was thinking about the place behind the door where the heights of growing children were marked with a lead pencil, with the date on which the measurements were taken. He was thinking about the corner where the dog slept, the holes where the mice ran in and out, the pipe-organ overtures played by March winds in the eaves and the fifth step on the stairs that always squeaked.

One of these days the architects may succeed in designing a machine for living — sort of a brooder house for humans. They're getting closer all the time, but there's a catch in it. Because the closer they get to a machine of living, the more evident it becomes to the non-mechanical creatures who are going to do the living that this isn't what they had in mind.

One Man's Opinion

WHAT I don't understand is how they can print "this comes to you through the courtesy of the mayor" on every raindrop that falls in New York.

California is watching the experiment . . . if the latter-day medicine men can actually make rain, they're assured a winter vacation all-expense-paid . . . in Florida.

Fifty thousand dollars seems a lot of money to pay for wet feet and I don't know why the tab isn't passed along to the over-shoe industry.

But it looks now as though the next New York election will depend more on precipitation than participation.

If this seems silly to the rest of the country, how do you think New Yorkers feel phoning City Hall instead of the Weather Bureau to ask when it will rain?

All I know is, if the Democrats make artificial rain, the Republicans can clean up on umbrellas.

You've heard of mayors being swept out of office? If anything goes wrong, this one will be mopped out.

Bradley Is 3 1/2 Point Favorite

Meet CCNY In N. I. T. Finals At Garden

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Bradley University is favored to justify its ranking as the best college basketball team in the country by cooling off City College at New York tomorrow night for the National Invitation championship.

The supremely confident Braves from Peoria, Ill., rule a three and a half point choice over Nat Holman's fired-up outsiders who, to date, have been the hottest thing on the premises.

The finalists will take the floor at Madison Square Garden at about 10 after Duquesne and St. John's, the semi-final victims, settle the issue for third place. The program starts at 8.

Forrest Anderson, the handsome 30-year-old Bradley coach, is showing no deep concern although he rates CCNY, on its present showing, the toughest foe in the field.

Bradley eliminated Syracuse in the quarter-finals, 78-66, and last night put out St. John's of Brooklyn, 83-72.

City College Chosen To Play In N. C. A. A.

Tigers Stomp Dover 69-57

Middletown Loses To Springfield Public

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, March 18—(AP)—Ohio names the all-star cast for its state high school basketball tournament in regional finals tonight.

The field of 224 Class A and 906 Class B clubs was down to 16 teams today—eight in each class—and four in each division will emerge from tonight's frays and head for the March 23, 24 and 25 finals in the state fairgrounds coliseum.

Of the 16 still on deck, only three have ever won a state title—and one of them must drop out tonight as Hamilton Public, the current Class A crown wearer, meets Springfield's Wildcats, 1925 champ, in the Cincinnati finals.

Eaton, the 1948 Class B King, stayed in the running with a "come-from-behind" 51-44 victory at Springfield over Lockland Wayne, the classy all-Negro quintet which reached the final game a year ago.

All of the Class A teams still firing have appeared in previous state classics, but five of the eight Class B squads are making their first bid—and two of them are certain to make it.

Class A survivors are Hamilton Public, Springfield, Youngstown Rayen, Garfield Heights, Akron South, Mansfield and Columbus East.

In Class B everyone has hung up its uniforms except Zanesville, Eaton, Miller City, Leesville, Cross Roads, Philo, Corning, Geneva and Norton.

Last night's program was filled with last-minute flurries which swept teams to victory—with Springfield and Columbus East staging the most impressive stretch drives.

Springfield tangled with Middletown's thrice-champion Midgies, and with three minutes to go was on the short end of a 34-32 count. Right there the famed "Middie Magic" which had carried the Butler county club through countless tournament games disappeared and the Wildcats rolled for eight straight points to lock up a 40-34 conquest.

That win shoved the 1925 champs into tonight's game with Hamilton's 1937-49 winners, and the Wildcats must be given an even chance since the Hamilton Big Blue team will be minus the services of its ace, "Pappy" Smith, who became 20 years old and ineligible yesterday.

Hamilton whipped the Wildcats twice during the regular season.

Columbus East, a finalist in 1924, was behind Toledo Whitmer, 17-11, 27-25 and 36-35 at the quarters but went out front by 45-42 with two minutes to go. In the two minutes East scored 13 points to turn the affair into a 58-45 rout, giving the Columbus club a regional finals berth against red-hot Mansfield.

Mansfield moved into the finals with a 56-52 win over Toledo Woodward, the team which handed Findlay its only loss of the season. The Tigers led all the way, except for a 42-42 tie late in the game.

The Kent regional will be an all-Akron event, with Garfield meeting South, the city champion. Both eliminated Cleveland teams last night, Garfield ousted Cleveland Lincoln, 50-46, with four points in the final six seconds as five men played all the way, and South defeating East Cleveland Shaw, Lake Erie League titlist, 45-41.

At Youngstown, the victors were Youngstown Rayen, city champ, and Garfield Heights. Rayen defeated Dover, 1927-33 state champion, 69-57, with a fine flurry. Behind 36-40, Rayen ran its edge to 57-42 with a 21-point spree and then coasted in. Garfield Heights rolled up a 16-5 first period margin over Youngstown South and romped to a 50-30 victory although Frank Petranek, who has averaged 24 points this season, was held to 14.

In Class B the Eaton club was behind, 16-5, to Lockland Wayne at the end of the first quarter, and down, 26-19, at the half. But in the third and fourth periods, paced by center Gene Neff who scored 22 points, Eaton outscored last year's finalists, 32 to 18.

The other Class B game, at Athens, saw Corning of Perry county defeat Manchester of Adams county, 46 to 42, in a see-saw contest. Midway in the third period Corning was out front, 37-26, but a Manchester surge tied it at 40-40. At that point Corning went for six straight points. The game was featured by a 47-foot field goal in the final four seconds of the first half by Corning's Dick Garrison, a feat which gave the winners a 27-23 half-time edge.

IT'S EASIER than having seconds patch up bleeding cuts, ex-heavyweight champion Max Baer has discovered. So he's concentrating on a movie career these days. Here the make-up man pretties up Baer between takes of Frank Capra's production of "Riding High," starring Bing Crosby. Maxie has a good-sized role. Of course, there are those who maintain Baer was a good actor in his ring days, too.

DiMag Is Apple Of Stengel's Eye; Clipper In Great Shape

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Casey Stengel's wrinkled-by-second-division-baseball face turns into smile wrinkles everytime he watches Joe DiMaggio shag a fly or cowl into a batting practice pitch at Miller Huggins Field.

"Just look at that DiMaggio out in center field—and he's got Joe Page hitting them," beams the 58-year-old pilot who aged some 20 years with those second division teams he had for nine years either in Brooklyn or Boston.

"Look at the grace of motion on Joe. He moves so easily with hardly any effort."

"I think he's the greatest ball-player in the last 20 years, and I've seen and played with some mighty good ones."

"Tommy Henrich, Joe and Phil Rizzuto, just those three, I allow to train themselves in their own way. They are all great players. They know how to get in shape and on top of that each one of them can explain every play in the book."

"DiMaggio came to camp 20 pounds heavier than when he finished the World Series. Of course, he was a sick man during the series, with that 'Virus X' or pneumonia or whatever it was."

"Anyway, I said to him, 'Joe, don't you think you ought to leave that 20 pounds on?' What do you think he said? 'No.' Joe wants to take it off gradually. Well, now he knows best and if he thinks getting his weight down is to his benefit I'm all for it."

"I'll be ready to open the season this time," says DiMaggio. "I feel so good, no more heel trouble and no more operations and my golf game I left in San Francisco. Got my score down to 110, too."

A great guy, DiMaggio. When the other players take a gander at his gracefulness they can't help but go all out to get in shape. And you don't have to ask the players how they feel playing for Stengel. They love his calmness.

Mount Union Spring Practice Draws 50

ALLIANCE, O., March 18—Approximately 50 candidates turned out for spring football this week at Mount Union College as newly appointed head football coach and athletic director, Nelson M. Jones, took his first look at his 1950 prospects.

Because of inclement weather the squad did only indoor work. Calisthenics and light workouts have been held in Memorial Hall, but as soon as the weather permits he will transfer his charges to the practice field.

The squad will practice until the beginning of spring vacation, March 4, when the men will lay off for a week and return, April 3, resuming for three weeks.

Akens, Segesman Win All-Events

Herman Segesman of Columbiana and Brad Akens of Salem topped all competitors in the all-events section of the recent Salem Bowling Association tournament.

Segesman rolled 1851 to take the all-events with handicap, title. Akens placed second in that division, with 1849, followed by Bill Hannay, 1831, George Marshall, 1821, Jack Galchick, 1810, and Bob Sell, 1805.

In actual pins, Akens led the field with 1759. Runnersup were Galchick, 1727, and Jerry Colaizzi, 1713.

Pep Wins Easy Nod Over French Champ

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—As long as he doesn't have to fight Sandy Saddler again, Willie Pep will continue to reign over the featherweights for a long time to come.

The little 27-year-old 126-pound champion underscored that last night when he waltzed to an easy 15-round title bout victory over Ray Famechon of France, the European featherweight king, in Madison Square Garden.

It was a neat, if not gaudy, conquest for the fleet-footed boxing master from Hartford, Conn., even though many of the 12,106 cash customers let loose with a torrent of boos at the final bell.

The jeers were for Willy the Wisp's clutching tactics as well as for the impotency of the foreign challenger's attack. Famechon showed a good left hand but he can't hit hard and it's been proved in the past that only a real belter will bother Pep.

Warming Up for the Cold War—

Communist influence in rich and strategic Southeast Asia is definitely on the upsurge, according to a United Press survey. With the area's huge rubber and tin production—sought by Japan in World War II—as its apparent goal, the Soviet is attempting to pull these young, floundering nations into its orbit. Reports indicate that the U. S. expects a major cold war offensive by the Reds in these countries. Secretary of State Dean Acheson has called upon them to link forces in an economic, political and social union to resist the spread of communism, offering the possibility of an Oriental Marshall Plan or Point Four program. Map above indicates the "hot spots."

Questions and Answers

Q—When did the Continental Congress cease to exist?
A—The Continental Congress closed its career unnoticed and almost in contemptuous neglect. The last roll-call was on Oct. 10, 1788.

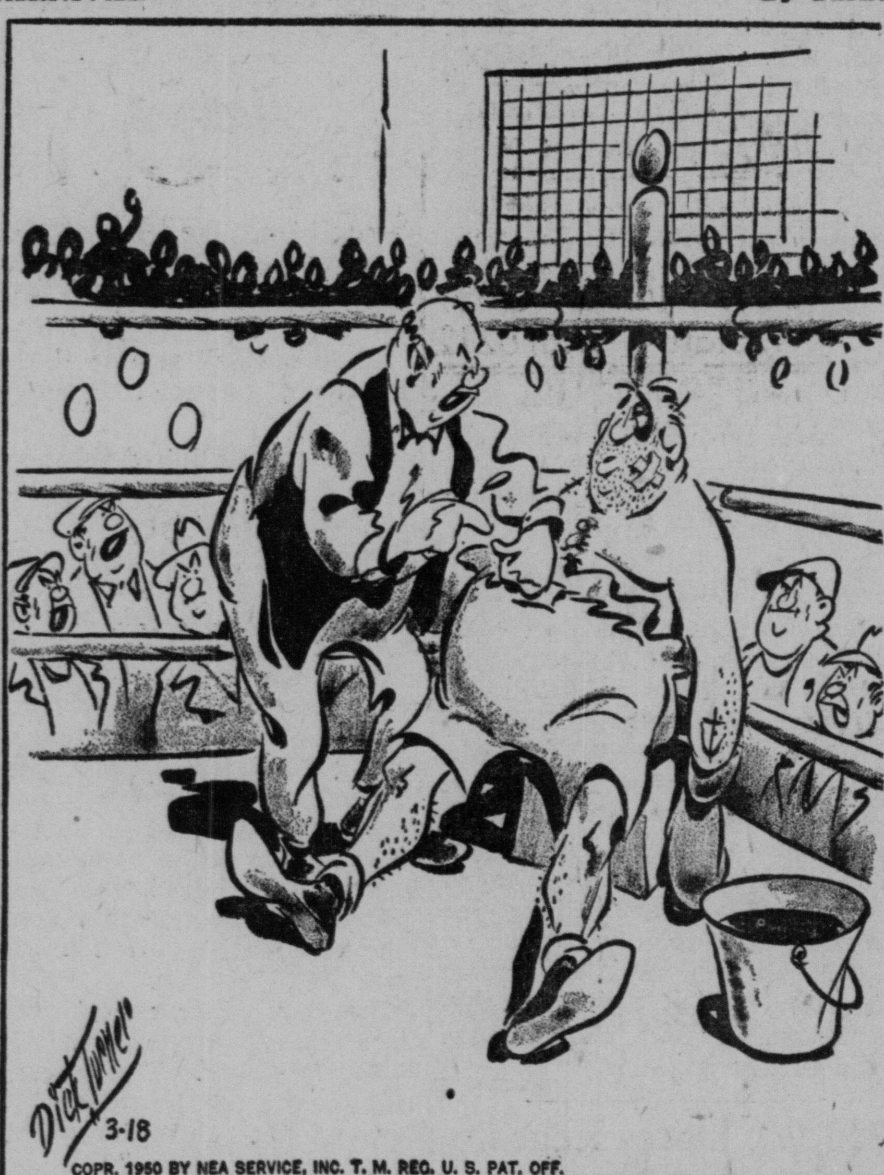

Q—When was the last time the United States Senate sat as a Court of Impeachment?
A—April 6-17, 1936, in the case of Halsted L. Ritter, judge of the United States District Court for the southern district of Florida. Ritter was removed from office.

Q—Does the government own the automobiles maintained for the use of the President and his staff?
A—None of the White House cars is owned by the government. By a time-honored custom, they are leased for White House work by their proud manufacturers, usually for about $500 a year for new ones. At the present time there are 29 automobiles in the White House garage.

Lonely Hearts Romeo In Jam

Man With Six Wives Waits
For One To Bail Him Out

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 18 (AP) — A strapping "lonely hearts" Romeo waited in vain today in a dingy jail cell for one of his six—possibly nine—former wives to put up $20,000.

That was the sum fixed for release of Clarence W. Buchanan, 49, when arraigned yesterday on charges of polygamy and fraudulently obtaining a signature.

Police quoted Buchanan as saying he wasn't quite sure whether he had picked up six or nine wives in his cross-country mail campaign in the past 26 years.

The 206 pound, six foot Casanova described himself as a St. Louis rooming house operator. He could recall marrying two women in that city and four elsewhere.

"They all wanted to use me for a sucker," he said as he talked freely to police and reporters. "I didn't entice them into marriage. They ran to me. And besides they tried to fleece me."

He made one exception. The exception was Ina J. Cihula, 55, of Sulphur Springs, W. Va. He said he married her in August, 1949, in Charleston, W. Va.

"She was swell," he said. "She ran a profitable grocery and allowed me to work in the store and handle money. But I didn't want to get her in trouble, so I left. She was the only one of the whole works I really loved."

It was Buchanan's latest marriage to a 40-year-old Cambridge nurse, Mrs. Veronica Burke Elliott, that brought about his arrest in St. Louis a week ago.

Police said the couple met through "lonely hearts" correspondence—the medium being Buchanan's own mimeographed letters. Hundreds of these were found in his suitcase, after his arrest.

They were married in Hampton, N. H., last November. Police said the night of their marriage Mrs. Elliott found hundreds of letters and five marriage certificates in his suitcase.

"I didn't want to marry him," police quoted her as saying, "but I was lonely. I have a four-year-old son and we couldn't get an apartment. I thought it would be easier to get one if I had a husband."

She got the apartment after she married Buchanan. But then he started pressing her for money and had her see a lawyer to place her property in a joint account, she said.

When he left on a "business trip" to St. Louis a week ago she notified police of her suspicions. That led to Buchanan's arrest.

Arrest Five More In Check Passing Ring

CLEVELAND, March 18—(AP)—Five more persons have been arrested in connection with a check forging and passing ring that operated in at least nine states.

Ray J. Abbaticchio, special agent in charge of the FBI here, said Frederick G. Detlefsen of Sandusky, O., had been charged with conspiracy to violate the National Stolen Property Act.

Detlefsen was arrested in Sandusky last week and described as head of the ring which operated in Kentucky, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, Florida and Missouri.

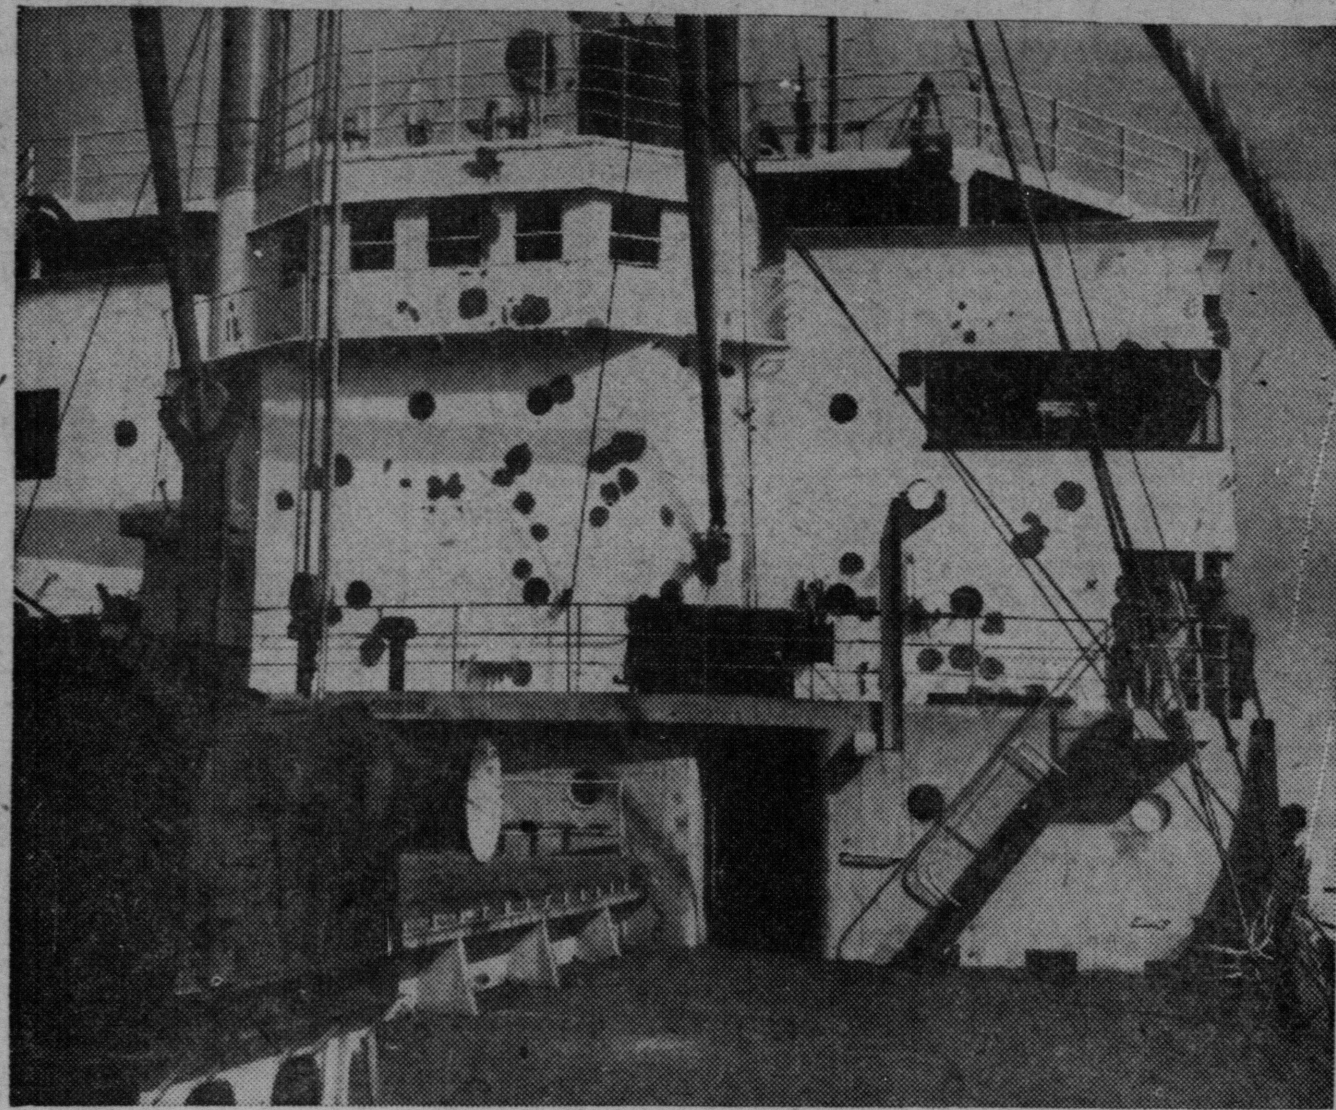

Abbaticchio said the same charge had been lodged against Murray Smith Gorsuch, of Houston, Tex., and Mildred Webster, both being held in Toledo, and Donald E. Seter of Sandusky, now held there. Another man, Wayne Gorsuch, is in a Decatur, Ind., jail on a check passing charge.

Police Chief Russell A. Thom of Sandusky also announced last night the arrest of Russell Lassen, 38, of Sandusky. He is accused of passing one of the counterfeit checks.

Detlefsen, according to the FBI, printed the checks at his Sandusky print shop.

Abbaticchio reported that Charles Edward La Crosse, 21, of Bono, O., was tried in Miami, Fla., last November and already has been given a federal prison sentence of five years and 11 months. The FBI said he had worked under Detlefsen.

Council In Leetonia
To Ask Levy Approval

LEETONIA, March 18 — The village council will ask the voters of the village to approve a five-mill operating levy at the May primary.

Faced with new expenditures and new demands, council decided that some of the requests would have to go unheeded or operations would have to be curbed. Since many of the village's services cannot be dispensed with, council decided to submit the operating levy to the voters. The five-mill levy, if passed, will run for two years, providing operating funds for the regular services and free money now being used for these purposes for improvements. The levy would add about $5 per $1,000 of valuations to tax costs per year.

As an example of added costs, Leetonia contributed $529 to the health department last year for its work. This year the department is seeking a 55 per cent increase in an effort to raise its needed $38,000. Leetonia's share for 1950 is about $800.

to continue the fire-fighting. They were still tossing ammunition overboard as the 26 pulled away.

"They couldn't go into the engine room," one said. "It was too hot."

"There was a lot of three-inch cased ammunition floating around," another said.

Those 14 conquered the fire. They were still manning the flame and explosion scared Elder when aid came a week later. Both the fire and explosion were unknown to the outside world. All that was known was that she had left Hawaii with a load of navigation buoys to be used during the atomic tests and had failed to arrive at Eniwetok. She was last heard from March 7, about 130 miles north of Johnston island which is 700 miles from Pearl Harbor.

The only other report came from the military transport Gen. A. W. Brewster. The transport said she sighted the Elder Monday and the net tender was "in no apparent trouble."

The search by plane and ship began early this week.

Stock Exchange

Advance Trend

Shows At Opening

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—The stock market showed an inclination to advance at the opening of trade today.

The trend was far from conclusive, though, for a good handful of leaders were pushed back. Changes either way were limited to fractions.

A fair amount of business was done at the start but the trading tempo soon slowed.

Higher prices were paid for Chrysler, Studebaker, Du Pont, General Motors, N. Y. Central, Schenley, Pennsylvania R. R., Standard Oil (NJ), Armour, and Kennecott Copper.

Marked down were Anaconda Copper, Santa Fe, International Harvester, General Electric, Southern Pacific, American Cyanamid, and Dow Chemical.

The market has been subject to heavy profit taking in the past two days following Wednesday's sharp advance. The selling has been well absorbed.
